Hence it is common to say that arguments that prove too much prove nothing. In an article on Monday morning last we reviewed the condition of the Colony and took occasion to say that " We are not of the class who believe that the negotiations now young on for the sale of this Colony to the Americans will amount to anything. The British Government—espe-cially a Tory Government—will not sell a foot of the territory it now holds. Were John Bright Premier, with a Radical Ministry, there might be a sale; but there is none to be looked for from a Ministry of which Earl Derby is at the head."

The publication of the article from which the above extract is taken has files of the Columbian from first to last rebeen made the subject of two "lead. ers" by our morning cotemporary, son and James E. After having declared our conviction -which has since proved correctthat the annexation negotiations would amount to nothing, how could we be astraddle of a fence that has furnish of his honesty, his purity and his no existence save in the imagination of the News and one or two of its contributors? How could we expect negotiations to be successful that we had just before prophecied would be of the proprietors of the British Columbian unsuccessful? Further on, in our article, the following sentence occurred : "But, is annexation the only panacea for our ills?—is it only by allying our cives to a loreign nation that we can enjoy the blessings which we have briefly sketched? We should be sorry to think so. We believe that Confederation with the Eastern Provinces is the only course that will preserve the loy-alty of this people or save the country from falling into a condition of hopelessness from which it may not emerge during the time of demonstration to-day was the largest display ever witnessed in Chicago. The procession was estimated at from 20,000 to 30,-More than half the shops of all kinds in the city are closed, the employers refusing to accede to the demands of the workmen. Whatever the ultimate result may be, it seems probable that the immediate effect of the law will be mischief and trouble between employers and laborers. Similar demonstrations occurred in most of the principal cities in the State.

[London correspondent of Boston Advertiser.] * * But though Lord Derby is the * * * But though Lord Derby is the very proudest of the English peers, and is utterly wanting in large sagacity as a political general, he is the third orator England possesses. The greatest of all is Mr Bright, Mr Gladstone is next, and the Earl of Derby, by the common consent of all, I think, who are able to judge, is the third. If an American visitor sees his Lordship now, for foothold in Victoria, is advertising himself as American visitor sees his Lordship now for mer member of the Victoria press tried the same thing with some success. He was a man of intellect and ability, though, where as the News-man reminds us of the Cockney newly arrived in America who asked a countryman, who had preceded him, why they could not make as good beer in the States as in England, and gotfor an arswer, "Because they haven't got the 'ops 1" Should any one ask new who are not provided that the clear, polished and haughty tones, the torrent of brilliant words, the five case and mer member of the Victoria press tried the any one ask us why our cotemporary's atcaptivating grace,-when these seizs upon the senses, you are compelled to admire Then, too he is all but the "first of the Earls," Francisco public has thus far failed, we should and to weak men this puts a halo over his be constrained to answer, "because he hasn't head. Meeting with one of these gentlemen the other day, Mr Disraeli asked him if he remembered their old master, and spoke of the worthy man in terms which would shock some of the bishops and archbishops who gave the blessing to the party he leads. As reform will be fought out in the Commous, it is upon Mr Disraeli that the heavy responsibility at this juothat the heavy responsibility at this junc-ture falls. He is not afraid of it. Look at him from the gallery of the House, and you will see no sign of care in his face. Indeed his countenance, when the is not speaking, is expressionless. If those strongly marked features of the pure Jewish caste were marble, they could not be more impervious to currosity or less affected by what is harpening around. When Mr Gladstone is tearing his schemes to shreds and concentrating upon him the ridicule of two bundred men, Mr. him the ridicule of two bendred men, Mr. Disraeli sits with folded arms as unmoved as though he were cut out of a rock. San Francisco, May 2—Arrived bark Rival, 8 days from Port Discovery; brig of congracter contributed for his wise. He of character contributed fo his wit. He certainly is never at a loss for those sudden and superficial resemblances which have an wered their purposes when they have flashed at once a subtle likeness and a ridi-culous contrast vividly on the mind, and is more fertile at discovering them than any other speaker in the House. Like Lord Lytton, he indulges often in a 'jeweller hemorrhage of words," and still he is with-out a rival amongst his followers. Again out a rival amongst his followers. Again and again have the writers in the liberal an: again have the writers in the liberal press declared that the smouldering discontent was about to break not a flame. He continues to be their leader. Even Lord Cranbourne, who wrote bitterly against him in the Quarterly Review, now chare with him, and smiles pleasantly if Mr Disraeli asks him a question. Dukes, earls, marquises and all the ranks down to the country squire who lives on the estate which has been in who lives on the estate which has been in has family since the time of Henry VIII, are still headed by this elderly Jewish gentleman, one (literally) of the circumcised, who is as foreign in his tastes as in his name. It has been curious this week to note all those proud men banging on his words; ready to cheer them, whatever they may be; listen-ing as he approached the more delicate parts of his statement, with suspended breath. If he meets them in the lobbies, they treat him and one noted how those owners of broad and one noted how those owners of broad acres, and fathers and brothers of peers es and of the delica e-veined beauties of the "best blood of the land" shouted their applause, and then turned to glance at the superb indifference in his face, one could not but admire the mere intellectualism of the man. Next to Louis Napoleon he is the political worder of Europe. man. Next to Louis Napoteon he is the political wonder of Europe.

Lord Stanley is a puzzle of altogether another kind. In the foreign minister of England under the tory administration, and the son of the most conservative of conservative chiefs, we see a man who inclines much more to the positivism of Counte than the lattle Church of England to a man the faith of the Church of England; a man who is a friend of John Stuart Mill; who cot very long ago was a friend of Mr Bright; who has written in the radical Westminster Review; and who yet is opposed to anything like democratic reform; who manifested cool contempt to the progress of nanifested cool contempt to the progress o manifested cool contempt to the progress of liberty on the continent; and who is content to sit at the side of a political Swiss like Mr. Disraeli. Two years ago, opinion was pretty evenly divided as to whether Lord Stanley was progressing towards liberalism or towards the opinions of his father. Some said that when Earl Derby retired, Lord Stanley would appear in his true colors as a radical; others shock their heads and said he would follow the example of the long line of noblemen's sons whose fervid adicalism frosted into the toryism of their fathers as the peerage drew toryism of their lathers as the peerage drew near. After the experience of last session, the latter are in the majority. In tempera-ment and mental habits, Lord Stanley must always be the antipodes of his father; but his cold understanding and calculating pru-dence, when they come to be used for his fear he would not object to give up the colchurch, and they know that on economical principles he is wholly in accord with the uppermost current of political tendency. If he were not "his father's son," they would have none of him. The liberals on the other He is neither hot nor cold. To no party can he bring the aid of debating power. Nature has afflicted him with a thickness of utter-

In never can understand one palf of what he bys; but he is an able man and his despatches will be a great improvement upon Earl Russell's. Lord Stanley is not only a puzzle to men; he is much more a puzzle to ladies. They cannot understand how the eldest son of a peer should have reached the fortieth year of his age a bachelor. Amongst the great families the question some years ago was asked in a way that may be described as frantic. Such conduct was declared ed as frantic. Such conduct was declared to be inexplicable, and then they began to explain it. He had been crossed in love; he had a liaison; his understanding was all that was manly about him, and so on through the gamut of foiled flirtations and b. Mad feminine intrigues. Gradually the lact became so familiar that the wonder which it had first awakened grew less. Bright eyes looked upon him carelessly. At odd shaft is sent at him at times, but this is less in the spirit of hope than of mischief He has lived down their attempts. Forty fair looking, with nice brown hair, smooth face, comely features and not unkindly eyes — he would not want a partner in a ball room whatever his condition in life. Add to this the beirship to the third earldom in the land, with a rent-roll of £100 000 a year and the premiership of a great political party, —where could so marriageable a man elsewhere be found? So out of all precedent is this anomaly, that his Lordship may think himself fortunate a private bill has not been proposed in Parliament, on the subject.

AUSTRALIA-MURDER OF FOUR DETECTIVES BY BUSHRANGERS-Late fyles of New South Wales (Australia) papers contain an account of the murder of four detective police officers -named Carroll, Kennagh, Phegan, and McDonald-by a party of bushrangers; known as Clarke's gang. The detectives were haoting for the highwaymen and stayed at Jinden Station over night. On the following morning they started out on foot. About 4 o'clock on the same evening a volley was heard, and about an hour afterwards a few shots. Next day the stockmen came on the bodies of Phegan and McDonald, and the Ballalaba police, while tracking the bushopen country where the murders were committed. From the position of the bodies, the party are supposed to have been walking together when a volley was fired from behind two large trees close to them. Phegan and McDonald fell together. A rifle bullet entered Phegan's right side, and this wound not being fatal a revolver shot was fired into his left side, the ball passing through. A rifle bullet entered McDonald's thigh, cutting the femoral artery, and he bled to death immediately. The bodies of Carroll and Kennagh were found together all a mile distant from the others. It is conjectured that they escaped the first volley, and ran for cover, were followed, called on to surrender, told to prepare for death, and then deliberately shot. A rifle bullet passed through Carrol's heart. His clothing was singed. A rifle bullet had passed through Kennagh's neck and left lung. Carroll was found lying on his back, with his handkerchief across his breast, and a £1 note pinned to it. One had £14 and the other £19 in his pocket untouched. Three revolvers were found near Phegan. They would seem not to have had one moment's warning before the volley was fired. An inquiry is going on. A woman, at a but half a mile distant, saw three men galloping away from the direction where the bodies lay after the shots. The bodies were in an advanced state of decomposition, and their removal to Braidwood was utterly im-They were interred at Jinden. the murderers. On the following day the gang attacked the Braidwood gold escort, but were driven off after an exchange of

"WHERE'S THE PITY?"-The News asks, "Where's the pity" that the new bill does not give the Magistrate power to send to hard labor an Indian whiskey seller for the first offence? The "pity" lies herein: that any loose fish, of the genus loafer, too lazy to work and afraid to steal, may sell a bottle of gin to a native under the very eyes of a policeman, submit to arrest, and have his board and lodging guaranteed for three months without being compelled to work a stroke. That's were the "pity" lies. The Indian Liquor Law is the greatest absurdity on the statute book. It not only fails to prevent the native drinking spirits, but it position to give a regiment to Prince Chris forces him to imbibe the most villations than has been abandoned—Glowworm. whiskey that the ingenuity of man can concoct : whereas, were the trade thrown open to all licensed dealers, the native might procure the same liquor as a white man, and the horde of loafers who now fatten on the earnings of the traffic that the law calls illicit, would either have to work or quit the country. With the prohibitory law the rogue has decidedly the advantage of the honest man.

ONE OF O'CONNELL'S odd stories used to be about a Miss Hussey. Her father made a will (said O'Connell) disposing of the bulk of his fortune to public charities. When he was upon his deathbed, his housekeeper ask-Mary. He replied that he had left her £1,-000, which would do very well if she married any sort of a good husband, "Heaven bless your honor!" cried the housekeeper, "and what decent man would ever take her with the nose she has got ?" "Why, that is really very true," replied the dying father. "I never thought of her nose;" and he lost no time in adding a codicil that gave Miss Mary an additional £150 a year as a set-off against her ugliness.

SALE OF THE CABLE SHIP EGMONT-Capt Inglis, of the ship Egmoot, yesterday received telegraphic information from her owners in London (Messrs Adamson & Ronaldsen), that the ship had been sold to the Western Union Telegraph Company, and directing him to deliver the vessel over to the company's agents here. On the return of Mr Lamb from New Westminster the transfer will be effected. The ship will probably remain at Esquimalt as a storeship until active operations are resumed by the Telegraph Company next summer.

THE ASSAULT WITH A BAR OF IRON-Liverpool Jack, who was arrested for striking an Indian on the head with a bar of iron, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was remanded for one day to allow him an opportunity to compensate the savage for the damage done to his cranium, "Jack's" excuse is that the Indian asked him for liquor, when his honest indignation rose to such a height that he wreaked summary vengeance on the in-

"DRURY LANE."-All admirers of fun will come this evening at the opening of the Drury Lane Concert Room, well-known as the Great Eastern Saloon, corner of Wharf and Johnson streets. There will be sirging, dancing, comicalities, &c., &c. To this Saloon there is a splendid bowling alley attached; also, a first-class restaurant. This place will be conducted on a first-class style, Tom Lafont. Admission Free.

In accordance with a suggestion thrown out at the late conference at the Londor Coffee House as to the causes which have alienated the working population from religious institutions, special sermons were preached on Sunday in various churches and chapels throughout London, to hear which working men were invited by public notices, posted on nearly all the "dead walls" and advertising stations" of the metropolis. Several eminent preachers volunteered their services for the occasion.

The steamer Emity Harris vs. the schooner Kale—Sait for salvage.

The case was one in which the schooner Kate, last December, got on the rocks off Victoria barbor during a storm, and was assisted off by the Emily Harris. Capt. Frain claimed $350 for his service. Capt. Waller, of the Kate, offered him $50, alleging that the service rendered could have been as efficiently performed by himself and crew.

The Court overruled the tender, and decreed $200, to be paid to the Emily Harris.

ETIQUETTE-The true gentleman is always ETIQUETTE—The true gentleman is always at ease in any society. When, therefore, you go to a house where you are comparatively a stranger, prove at once that you feel at home 'y slapping the host on the back. It will add to the effect if you take the mistress of the house round the waist and say, "Kitchee, kitchee!" playfully. A graceful humor is always appreciated in good society. Ke, ping this in mind, you may indulge in various ittle pleasantries. For instance, at supper ask in a loud voice for various dishes not likely to be on the table; and when your not likely to be on the table; and when your not heely to be of the table; and when your hostess says there is no pheasant (or whatever it may be), say, "Then I'll take two helps, please." Dress is the test of the gentleman. No real gentleman can by any possibility be mistaken for a witer, at an evening party—especially if he wears a red velvet waisteout, a green silk tie, and a striped shirt. This sattless the question at once. shirt. That settles the question at once. To be able to dance well is a great desideratum for those who go to balls. If you don't happen to be a good dancer, you can get the reputation of being one by asking a young lady to dance, taking a few turns, and then leading her to a seat with the remark, that she evidently has no knowledge of time.

This, compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul cruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the viliated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, cruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the voins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of lite disordered, there can be no tasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

centrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sleft, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which floud the nursely ward in the properties. which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle. PREPARED BY

has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complain, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all it has ever been found to do.

Mrs Cridge. Mrs Harris. Mrs R Woods.

Hon. Secretary—Dean Cridge, Hon, Treasurer—J. G. Shepherd, Esq. MEDICAL ATTENDANTS. Dr Trimble. Dr Powell.

REPORT. From 1st January, 1866, to 31st March, 1867

It was left for this day and hour to realize the dream and show in one glorious fact, the magic that made it The committee are happy to report that.

The committee are happy to report that, notwithstanding the depressed circumstances of the times, they have continued to extend the benefits of the Institution to the sick and atflicted. Since the last Report nine patients have been admitted; one has died, and eight have been discharged convalescent. These Famous Remedies Cannotstay the flight of years, but they can force back, and hold aloof, diseases that might triumph over the aged and the young. Let none hesit it then, but seize he lavorable opportunity that offers. When taken as have been discharged convalescent.

In order, however, to enable them to do this, they have been compelled to reduce the allowances to their efficient nurse and matron, Mrs. Ford, during the periods when there are no patients in the Infirmary.

It will appear from the Treasurer's report that the total contributions have amounted to $1320, while the total expenditure on behalf of the patients has fallen short of $1050. It is abricus; therefore that but for the delt which Nothing can be more productive of cure than these Pills Their almost magic influence is felt at once; and the usual concomitants of this most distressing disease are removed. These remedies are made from the purest Vegetable Compounds. byjous, therefore, that, but for the debt which obvious, therefore, that, but for the dect which presses upon the institution, there would have been a considerable balance to its credit. The committee view this as an encouragement to persevere in this beaevolent work.

To grard the institution against needless To grard the institution against needless expenditure, paying patients have been required to make some payment in advance, as this duty is sometimes forgotten after the benefits have been enjoyed. It is pleasing, however, to notice more than one case in which, without any engagement, discharged patients have testified their appreciation of the blessings they have received, by becoming liberal contributors to the funds.

liberal contributors to the funds. A series of lectures and concerts, under the A series of fectures and concerts, under the auspices of the Bishop and Mrs. Hills, has netted apwards of $230 towards the liquidation of the debt and of the interest thereon, which now amounts to $772; but it is hoped that the vote of $250 made some time ago by the House of Assembly will be paid by the Government and assist to relieve the Institution of this burden.

Government and assist to relieve the Institu-tion of this burden.

Mrs. Seymour has kindly consented to be-come a Patroness of the Infirmary.

In conclusion the committee would thank the subscribers and donors for their tenevo-lent liberality; and here they would not fail to mention the great obligation which the subscribers, patients, and managers, are under to who have given their valuable and pratutious services to the charity. They would express their firm belief that an institution which extends its benefits to all, without respect to nationality or denomination, will not be suffered to languish for want of funds. They would still appeal to the women of this colony not to look coldly on a work which is so calculated to conduce to the comfort and elevation of their sex. The managers may sometimes feel a difficulty in drawing a line as to the cases which deserve admission, but they believe that the subscribers will fully bear the careful attention of the medical gentlemer believe that the subscribers will fully bear them out in the view that, while they should them out in the view that, while they should quard the Institution against being made the starting point for a fresh career in vice, they should never turn away a poor perishing outcast, by whatever causes her affliction may have been produced. E. CRIDGE,
